Apology

The tendency of modern times has been too much towards the individualistic family without the supporting traditions. The patriarchal families played a more important part in the development of lofty characters and high ideals in government and society than we are accustomed to accredit to them. The generation of our forefathers is not snobbery, but rather the looking towards those who most delighted in our being for proper standards and incentives.

When children lose respect and reverence for their parents and no longer cherish the memory of those bound to them by ties of consanguinity, they cast aside the chart and compass that is of superlative importance in life's voyage. We are debtors to all who have gone before us, and our most valuable inheritance is not the blood that flows in our veins, but the standards that our fathers have set for us and the expectations they have constantly held for us.

Therefore, the desire to keep green the memory of those to whom we owe most for life's successes and happiness, is the only apology we have for the existence of this volume.

Explanatory

About the year of 1695 George Wyatt with his wife Elizabeth settled in Salem, Mass. They had children—Mary and George baptized in the Church of Salem, May 3, 1702. From all the records that I can find this George Wyatt came from England to Salem. Their home in England was near London. George, the son of George and Elizabeth, married in Salem, wife's name unknown; they had children, Joshua, Nathan, Abraham and George, Jr.

George Wyatt, Jr., married Sarah Stone in Salem, Mass., October 31, 1750 and they had children, Sarah, Joseph, George, Betty, Samuel and Joshua.

Samuel married Sarah Parker May 12, 1778 at Danvers, Mass., and then they went to Amherst, N. H., where their family was born and some are still in New Hampshire. Others of the family went on to Vermont.

Joshua Wyatt married Elizabeth Shaw in Danvers, Mass., Feb. 22, 1784 and about 1790 they went to Uniontown, Westmoreland County, Pa. Then about 1799 he went to Ohio.

In the history of Athens County, Ohio, contains the following sketch of Joshua Wyatt:

"Joshua Wyatt known during his residence in Athens County, Ohio, as "Deacon Wyatt" was a native of Beverly, Mass. Where he came out as far west as Uniontown, Penn., in 1790 and from thence to Maritta in 1799. He settled with his family in Ames Township in 1801 having the year before opened a few acres of land, and got a house under way, which was finished after the family moved in. His family and goods came up the Hocking in a boat, to Warren's Station in Canaan Township. Whence they were taken in teams across to his place in Ames. His effects made 17 wagon loads and were mostly hauled by Peter Mansfield, through the woods, without as yet any road. From the date of his settlement in the township, till his death in 1822 he was a leading citizen. He was a man of distinguished piety and his life, both in public and in private, was singularly devout. Upon the organization of the First Presbyterian Church in Athens he was chosen one of the elders and with Deacon Ackley and Judge Alvin Buigham, continued to act as such for several years. Soon after settling in Ames, as early as 1805, he appointed and himself conducted religious meeting and prayer meetings at the school house. These meetings were kept up as long as he lived. His eldest daughter, Betsy Wyatt, married Wm. Parker, May 13, 1802. This was the first wedding in Ames Township, and supposed to be the second marriage in the County."

I have brought the families of George and Samuel Wyatt down to the children of today.

From about 1700 to 1800 the name of Wyatt was spelled many ways as Wiat, Wiot, Wiatt, Wyat and Wyatt, but Wyatt is the way it should be.

The relationship may be easily determined by the figures used before the names. At the head of the Genealogy is the name George Wyatt number 1 and his children number 2 and his grand children number 3 and so on down to the children of today.

To understand it better, look in the index for the name you know best and the index will refer you to the page on which that name occurs. Then study the figures used before these names and you will understand the relationship of all other families. Women are always indexed under the maiden names.

I was over three years compiling this Genealogy and have tried to reduce the errors to a minimum. The purpose of this volume is to present only a Genealogy and in no sense is it a eulogy or a series of biographical sketches. It was not always easy to determine the correct spelling of given names, but I have followed what seemed to be the most trustworthy reports that were sent in.

Copy of letter written by George Wyatt Jr., to his brother Joshua Wyatt. Please notice the way they spelled some words.

Danvers, Mass., Oct. 3, 1800.

Dear Brother:

After my compliments to you and my wishes for your prosperity I would inform you that I am well hoping these lines will find you enjoying the same state of health as they leave me in. I would inform you that your father is yet alive and mother too. Your father is almost deprived of his senses, I am afraid it won't be long before I shall have the unhappiness to write you of his death. Your mother holds out very well for a woman that is eighty one years old. Sir I have the unhappiness to inform you that Mr. Seaman Baker is dead, he died the first of last June. No other deaths has hapened among your relatives since you left the town. Your brother Sam is married again and makes out verry well. Sir I will inform you that your brother Joseph Wyatt sailed from Boston about four years ago with Brig under his command and owning a part of it himself. Sailed to the West Indias where he sold Vesel and Cargo. About three years ago he sailed for the West Indias as Mate of another Vesel, was taken by the French since then he has been a wander about the world. Sir your letter came to me yesterday you infor me you have not heard from home these five years. I have written to you several times but had no answer from you since the letter that Mr. Woodsell (This name I cannot make out) fetch with him with no date I could write that you would send me a letter as soon as you can make it conversant and informe me whether you ever mean to come into these parts any more, I could wish to see you again. I would come into that country but I can't leave home, your father is so unwell that I can't leave home three days together. I have a great mind to come and see the country and settle there as I am not married if you can see a chance for me I could wish that you would write me word, if your father should be otherwise than well, I think that I should come unto you, the War in Yurope hath put every thing into confushen here and when it will be better I cannot tell, there is no prospects of peace for the present. The tanning business is duller than ever. Your father is a great mind to see you before he leaves this world but he is afraid that he never will, if you come and see him sune you never will see him.

So I conclude my letter by wishing you all the hapeness that this world affords.

This from your friend,

GEORGE WYATT, JR.

Beverly, Mass., Oct. 6th, 1800.

Sir since I left Danvers I have heard from Amherst and I am sorry to inform you that the nuse was that your brother Prince is sick with the disentary and that there was no prospect of his recovery, how true this is I cannot tell. So I remain your friend,

GEORGE WYATT, JR..
